

NEWS OF EVERY FIELD
FULLY COVERED

SPORTS

THE TRUTH ABOUT SPORT
IS NEVER A KNOCK

NODA STILL TOPS BATTERS OF LEAGUE

Scorer W. T. Raposo has worked out some interesting figures on the Oahu baseball averages, as follows:

TEAM FIELDING.

	G.	PO.	A.	E.	TC.	Pct.
P. A. C.	6	156	71	15	242	.934
J. A. C.	7	186	94	25	305	.918
Asahi	6	153	78	23	254	.909
Stars	7	192	91	36	319	.904
Hawaii	6	150	84	33	267	.876

CLUB BATTING.

	G.	AB.	R.	B.	SB.	SH.	Pct.
Stars	7	209	32	51	11	1	.244
Asahi	6	192	24	39	23	3	.203
J. A. C.	7	220	36	44	22	5	.200
Hawaii	6	209	24	41	31	3	.196
P. A. C.	6	200	26	28	25	2	.140

INDIVIDUAL BATTING.

Four (4) or more games.

	G.	AB.	R.	B.	SB.	SH.	Pct.
Noda (A)	6	23	3	12	3	0	.522
D. Desha (H)	6	22	6	8	5	0	.364
Ross (J)	4	14	2	5	0	0	.357
Kibbey (S)	7	28	3	9	1	0	.321
Joy (S)	6	23	7	7	1	0	.304
C. Moriyama (A)	6	23	3	7	3	0	.304
Kuall (J)	6	17	6	5	3	0	.294
La Mere (P)	5	18	6	5	0	1	.278
Markham (J)	6	22	4	6	2	1	.273
Yamashiro (A)	6	19	2	5	3	1	.263
McIntyre (H)	6	23	3	6	1	1	.261
Medeiros (J)	6	17	3	4	0	0	.235
Freitas (P)	5	17	0	4	0	0	.235
McGovern (S)	4	13	2	3	0	0	.231
Clark (J)	5	9	2	2	0	0	.222
Sumner (S)	6	23	1	5	1	1	.217
Chillingworth	7	28	7	6	7	1	.214
Kurikaki (A)	5	19	2	4	2	0	.211
Souza (P)	5	19	2	4	0	0	.211
Hughes (B)	6	25	2	5	0	0	.200
Raphael (H)	4	15	0	3	3	0	.200
Nishi (A)	6	21	6	4	4	1	.190
Ornellas (P)	5	21	2	4	5	0	.190
Schuman (S)	7	28	6	5	2	0	.179
T. Moriyama (A)	6	23	3	4	2	0	.174
Flizer (P)	6	23	2	4	2	1	.174
Hayes (H)	6	24	3	4	4	1	.167
Burns (S)	4	12	1	2	0	0	.167
Dobsky (S)	5	19	3	3	0	0	.158
A. Desha (H)	6	26	1	4	1	1	.154
McCarthy (P)	5	20	4	3	6	0	.150
Zerbe (J)	6	18	1	2	0	1	.111
Williams (H)	5	18	1	2	2	0	.111
Zamiska (P)	6	26	3	2	2	0	.109
Nacimont (S)	7	25	1	2	2	0	.077
A. Joseph (P)	4	15	1	1	0	0	.067
Hamaoka (H)	4	16	1	1	2	0	.067
Araki (A)	5	16	3	1	2	0	.062
Sakuma (A)	6	20	2	1	2	1	.050
Britto (J)	5	20	0	1	1	0	.050
Bruna (J)	6	22	2	1	1	1	.045
Madeira (P)	5	14	1	0	2	0	.000
F. Joseph (P)	4	14	1	0	1	0	.000

THE CALL OF THE DIAMOND.

You may talk of the track and the paddock,
Of the pastime of princes and kings,
You may follow the student of Queensbury rules
At the side of the roped sawdust rings.
But the call of the diamond is sweetest,
And joy overflows from his cup
When the "fan," seated high in the bleachers
Hears the umpire command "Bat-ter up!"
We all know how the charm of the woodland
And the lure of the clear mountain brook,
Where the trout in the shadowy waters
Are trapped by the fly and the hook;
But the brain thrills with keener sensations
As the thousands surge in through the gate,
And the air rings with wild exhortations
When the batsman steps up to the plate.

The epicure gets indigestion
And is cut down to hot milk and toast.
The dancing fraternity lose lots of sleep
From the hours when it's needed the most;
But the bleacher bathes in the sunshine
And is charged with no extra expense
When a liner propelled by his favorite's bat
Takes a plank from the center field fence.

In the warm afternoons of the summer
We close up the office and shop,
And hie ourselves out to the ball grounds
And revel in peanuts and pop.

Where the roar of the stands wakes the echoes
Like the booming of thirteen-inch guns
And the scorers grow hot with excitement
As they chalk up the hits and the runs.

The lure of the ball game grows stronger,
The call of the diamond more clear,
The ranks of the "fans" are increasing
As the game gains in favor each year.

We all know it's played on the level;
Let's give it our loyal support;
And foster the spirit of manhood it breeds
Which has made it the national sport.

—RICHARD WRIGHT.

PALZER TO QUIT BOXING

Big Iowan Declares He Is Now Tired of Fight Game; Is Going Back to the Farm

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—According to a statement made by Al Palzer, the foremost white hope of the country, has made up his mind to retire from the ring for a time and go back to the farm. Although the burly Iowan farmer has worked his way to the forefront of all his numerous competitors, he has become thoroughly discouraged over his inability to get bouts. This is due to the fact that he refuses to box under the management of the man who holds a contract on his services.

"I have decided to go back home," said the big fellow in telling his troubles. "If Tom O'Rourke would put up a bond guaranteeing to give me fair treatment I would be willing to go back to him, but he has repeatedly refused to do this. I can't trust him and I will never fight under his management again unless I know I am going to get a square deal."

"I have been trying to get a court decision on whether my contract will hold good, but I can't get any action on it. As the question remains, it is up to O'Rourke to make the first move, but he keeps putting it off. I have been hanging around doing nothing long enough, and I am tired of it all. I am young yet and I have lots of time. I think I'll go back to the farm and wait until the contract runs out. I am going home anyway, and unless O'Rourke will come to terms with me I will not come back until I am a free agent again."

Palzer is feeling bitter not only toward O'Rourke but the local promoters as well, who he declares are not treating him fairly. He realizes that what he needs most of all at this stage of his career is plenty of work in the ring. It irks him sadly to see the other big fellows whom he characterizes as "easy marks" getting the money while he is forced to remain idle.

Palzer hints darkly of many wheels within wheels in the local boxing situation and intimates that he could tell a tale that would cause certain persons to sit up and take notice if he cared to.

State Senator Marshall Black who caused the crash of the Palo Alto Building and Loan association refused to resign from the legislature and the recall may be used to oust him.

WILL LEAD PUNAHOU IN FOOTBALL GAME SATURDAY

"BILL" SCHUMAN
Quarterback and captain of Oahu College eleven

WHAT'S BECOME OF THAT OLD NOISY KAM-RAH CHORUS?

Why not some cheering at the football games this year?
It is a big factor in heartening the boys on the field. McKinley High had a yell leader at the games last year and he did his best to get the students to holler, and he got them to deliver the goods. Now the question arises as to whether or not the High will keep that spirit up from year to year.

When Punahou plays a game of football, or any other game for that matter, the school is represented by a large majority of the classmates who generally keep up a good deal of racket throughout the game.
A well-drilled chorus led by a snappy yell leader is a big feature of any football game. Take into consideration any of the large high schools on the mainland. Just as soon as school commences in the fall the student body meets and a cheer leader is chosen. This is one of the first things that is done. He is not merely chosen at random, but there are generally two or three fellows in line for the position and the election arouses keen interest, because what the students want is a leader—one that can keep the noise going and keep the crowd of rooters together. If the school is exceptionally large, the leader generally has from one to two assistants, as the case may be. They begin at once to hold meetings of all the students, either at noon or after school.

Every school expects every man to come out to the games and contribute his share of the noise. Then when the first game is played, every student knows the yells and how to give them. And they make some noise, too!
Therefore, let's have some cheering at the football games this year.
ENTHUSIAST.

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

KAMEHAMEHA IN LAST COMPANY BASEBALL

Company B Wins Championship in Close Game—Soccer Begins Soon

The championship inter-company baseball game was played yesterday afternoon between Companies B and C of Kamehameha school, and Company B came off victorious, winning over Company C by a score of 3-0. The game was splendid, both teams straining to their utmost to beat each other. They were both very evenly matched and that tended to heighten the interest in the game.
Before this game the standing of the Companies was as follows:
Company A, 12 points.
Company B, 16 points.
Company C, 16 points.
Company A dropped out before the finals and the championship was left to be fought for by Companies B and C with the results above mentioned.

Companies B and C held together throughout the whole baseball season and there was a good deal of doubt as to who would be the winner. Company A was composed of smaller and less experienced players but they did well and their efforts are certainly worthy of commendation.

According to a previous arrangement the company that wins the baseball series is to get three extra points and the company which has the most points in everything at the end of the athletic season is to be treated to a dinner and a dance by the rest of the school.
Soccer Begins Soon.
Eighty-one boys have been playing baseball, each company having three teams. In soccer, which begins Tuesday of next week, ninety-nine boys will be playing, there being nine teams of eleven men each.

The school soccer series, which begins next week, will be completed before Christmas. No inter-school soccer schedule has been arranged yet, but Kamehameha and St. Louis have decided to play at least two games before Christmas so that the games will not all come in a bunch.

The High School will not play soccer until after the football season, which will not be completed much before Christmas. If no soccer games were played until after Christmas they would all come in a bunch and the Athletic League wants to avoid this rushing and bunched as much as possible.

No extra points are to be given to the winning team or company in soccer. The inter-company games will last for about three weeks. Track begins immediately after soccer.

The Kamehameha boys are extremely busy all the year round. School work, drills and athletics take up all their time. The athletic committee has arranged for something to be going on all the time for the boys.

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to give the victors due recognition. Further, the defeat of British sportsmen strikes most Brits as something more exceptional than their victories. Until quite recent times we were "top dog" in so many sports and pastimes that our wins were accepted as a matter of course. The Olympic games movement has led to other nations making big progress, and our supremacy has been challenged in many directions. This is all the better for international sport, and also for good feeling between England and other nations. There may be some who see in our defeat on the field of sport signs of de-

GREAT BRITAIN SAID TO BE TAKING IN TOO MUCH SPORT

By A. B. G.

LONDON, September 12.—A kindly correspondent recently wrote to the effect that he considered I was more than fair in chronicling the success of foreign sportsmen over Brits, but often failed to give equal prominence to the success of our men when the positions were reversed. The writer can only accept this as a compliment for he would far rather be over-fair to our rivals than otherwise.

There is also another side to the matter, from a point of view of interest. The success of the Australian and French oarsmen at Henley regatta, for instance, happened to be the outstanding feature of the regatta. It was therefore the proper thing to